

26th March 2007

BD completes move to the Park

BD, (Becton, Dickinson and Company) a leading global medical technology company and one of Oxford's largest employers, has just celebrated its move to the state-of-the-art Oxford Science Park as part of its continuing commitment to Oxford and the local business environment.

Johnny Lundgren, Country General Manager for BD in the UK, said: "This is a major move for BD and further demonstrates BD's close ties with the UK and in particular, Oxford, and our intention to build upon the great work achieved here to date. The Oxford Science Park absolutely matches our needs and provides a great base for employees and clients alike. This is also testament to the healthy business environment in Oxford."

BD have moved into the 55,000 sq ft Danby building designed by leading architects EPR, with internal design by Scott Brownrigg Interiors.

Charles Young of Science Park Joint Venture partners Magdalen College commented: "We are delighted to welcome BD and their employees onto the Park and look forward to building a long term and fruitful relationship."

To view the BD press release see www.bd.com or here

ENDS

Photo caption:

'The Danby Building – The Oxford Science Park'

